1987 - 2009

BRITISH JOURNAL OF MUSIC THERAPY

The British Journal of Music Therapy is published jointly by the British Society for Music Therapy and the Association of Professional Music Therapists. Two issues are despatched to members of both organisations each year.

The Journal was formerly known as the Journal of British Music Therapy and the name changed to the British Journal of Music Therapy in 1995.

Back issues can be purchased at £10 each plus postage & packing. Please note that some back issues of the Journal are now out of print, but we supply photocopies of the original and some issues, which we only have a short supply of, will also need to be photocopied once the supply has been used up.

Please see Order Form at the back of this Booklet.
